

the Fox and the daughters

by
DAVID

The Fox and the daughters

One morning Chanticlear and his hens woke Chanticlear said,
"Cock a doodle doo."

The widow and her two daughters woke up.
Then the older daughter
remembered that she had to feed the rooster and his hens.

The younger daughter named Becca took a walk into the woods to get some blueberries to make pie. She became lost. She did not cry.

The fox sneaked up to her. The fox said, "Would you like to take a walk with me to my den?"

Then the fox said, "You are the most beautiful woman in the world!
I want to be your best friend."
Becca answered, "Okay."

They walked together to the fox's den.

The fox said, "Would you like a seat. I will go hunting for food and you can stay right here."

The fox went out to trick her. He picked poisonous poke berries.

They are small red berries that look good

He brought the yummy berries back to the den. They were really yucky berries. The fox said, "Try this--- these are the best ever."

Becca ate one. She fell down. The fox said, "ah ha ha ha ha".

Then Chanticlear and the widow entered the den. The fox hid in a closet. Chanticlear and the widow noticed Becca laying down on the floor.

The widow saw the poisonous berries. The widow opened the closet.

The fox jumped out of the closet and climbed out the window next to the closet.

The widow and the rooster chased the fox, but got lost.

Becca woke up and made poisonous pie with the berries. The fox returned to the den. Becca told the fox to eat the pie and he gobbled the whole pie down because he was greedy and did not want to share.

The fox laid down and died.

The widow and rooster found the den again.
They were happy because the fox died and because Becca was feeling better.

They all went back to the farm.
They all lived happily every after.

